

PG&E - Marketing & Communications | Momentum Substation Upgrades Benefit Placer County Development

If you look at the perimeter of the substation, you'll see new homes going up. You'll see new businesses started. All of this outside the fence is possible because of what we're building inside the fence.

We're here at the groundbreaking of the new Momentum substation. This is to serve the Placer One development of over 2,000 acres, which includes 5,600 homes, as well as college satellite campus, roads in the area.

The first phase will include two 75 MVA transformers. And when we're done, we're going to have four transformers here.

Power is a critical element, especially a community like this that's all electric. It's paramount that we have reliable supply with that amount of demand.

It takes an investment into our community in order to grow something bigger and better. Partners like PG&E being at the table with us, it's the only reason why things like this happen.
