The big news, we finally are receiving our transformer bank. This new infrastructure allows us to meet the needs of our hometowns.

The right investment at the right time can actually lower customers bills. More customers connected to the grid supports lower bills for all customers.

Utilities are a part of everything our contractors do. If you don't have utilities, you're not building anything. PG&E is prepared for the future.

This area is hopping. You got to keep up with that growth. And in order to keep up with the growth, we need to continue growing and upgrading our system for our neighbors.

This capital investment here in the greater Santa Rosa area, it's enabling economic growth, it's enabling improved reliability, and it's ultimately going to allow for a clean energy future at a lower cost for customers.
