

EV Advisory Services Program Terms and Conditions

PG&E is here to help you with your electric vehicle projects. Our free EV Advisory Services will give you helpful advice based on your specific project's needs. But please remember:

- PG&E's advice is informational and does not constitute professional or legal guidance; we encourage consulting qualified professionals for specific issues.
- Our advisory services are provided voluntarily, with no guarantee of accuracy, completeness, or fitness for any specific purpose.
- PG&E is not liable for any direct, indirect, incidental, consequential, or special damages arising from the use of our advice or services.

Data Collection and Use:

Program Participants shall support the data collection requirements of the Program. Data collection will conform with the requirements of Resolution E-5314 and any other requirements imposed by the California Public Utilities Commission, including requirements listed in the Data Reporting template.

By joining the program, you agree to the data collection requirements set by the California Public Utilities Commission. Your data will be kept confidential, but details of your project may be used for reports, industry meetings, case studies, and similar purposes.
