

Energy Advisor for Agricultural Business

OCTOBER 2014

SHARE

Time-of-Use rates are coming in March 2015

The next phase of agriculture customers will transition to Time-of-Use rate plans in March 2015. Act now to select the best rate plan option for your agriculture business and find ways to conserve resources in severe drought conditions.

Get started

Energy Action Month

October is Energy Action Month. Take the opportunity to learn more about your business's energy use and steps you can take to reduce consumption.

Get savings tips

New rebates available!

Upgrade your equipment with two new rebates from PG&E: Agricultural Variable Frequency Drive (VFD) and Agricultural Irrigation Pump Overhaul (≤ 25 hp). Check out our latest agricultural catalog for more details and other rebate offers.

Get rebates

Turn to us for drought support

California farmers have been especially hard-hit by the drought. That's why we've developed more rebates and incentives for water- and energy-saving equipment, including pumps and irrigations systems.

Learn more

Business Energy Checkup: Find new ways to save

This easy-to-use online tool allows you to quickly create a customized energy plan and track energy use for your agricultural operation.

Watch video

Spotlight

PG&E Business Resource Center

Get insights and energy-management information for your business from PG&E's new resource center. PG&E has provided tools and information to help you find a contractor, implement practical ways to save money and energy with lighting, and much more.

Check out resources
