

Energy Advisor for Business

FEBRUARY 2014

SHARE

LED rebates focus on savings

There's never been a better time to make the switch from conventional lighting to energy-efficient LEDs. PG&E is offering instant rebates on the purchase of LED directional lighting, as well as incentives on LED fixtures for outdoor and high-bay lighting. Through July 1, you can save even more with rebates on lighting controls.

Learn more

Take control of your energy costs

With PG&E's My Energy, you have the resources you need to manage your energy use smarter and more efficiently. Link and manage multiple accounts, compare and choose rate options, create an energy-saving action plan tailored to your business' needs and more, all with one easy-to-use online tool.

Find out more

Seven elements of effective energy management

Comprehensive energy management is the best approach for achieving sustained energy cost savings and a great way to help your bottom line. Three key components of a successful energy-management program include assessing performance, setting goals and measuring progress.

View more

Go solar and get cash back

Whether it's for a business or a multi-family property, solar water heating can help you save energy and reduce your environmental impact. The CSI-Thermal Program offers cash rebates to PG&E customers who install qualifying solar water heating systems.

Get rebates

Ten tips for a safer workplace

The average lost time due to workplace electrical injuries is four days. While the well-being of your staff is your first priority, safety measures make good business sense. We have 10 tips that will help you keep your workplace safe from electrical hazards.

See the tips