

Pecho Coast Trail – Information and Sign In

If you have chosen to participate in a recreational hike on the Pecho Coast Trail, please read the waiver information below. By reading and scheduling your visit on the Pecho Coast Trail, you acknowledge and assume all risks and waive any claims.

Know before you go:

The Pecho Coast Trail can pose serious risks to hikers, including conditions such as changing weather conditions, heat exposure and an elevation change. The trail is along steep cliffs, coastal bluffs, with narrow dirt trails, steep grades (up to 45%), crumbling earth, and possibilities of other strenuous hiking conditions. Pecho Coast Trail is along a rare, undeveloped, area of coastline; with known populations of poison oak, thistles and other vegetation that can cause discomfort. There can be wildlife in the vicinity of the trail; as well as rattle snakes and ticks. The route to the Point San Luis Lighthouse is 3.6 miles, out and back.

- I am accessing the Pecho Coast Trail for recreational purposes.
- Any commercial activities, such as photography, must be arranged prior to the hike.
- Emergency medical services or emergency transportation to medical facilities is not available on the Pecho Coast Trail.
- Pecho Coast is a remnant of original coastal habitat and is preserved in a natural state. I understand there are existing hazards and conditions associated with use of the Pecho Coast Trail for recreational purposes.

By reading this form and scheduling your visit on the Pecho Coast Trail, I acknowledge that I have read the waiver and assume all risks.
