At PG&E, we believe that everyone and everything should be safe. PG&E and The PG&E Corporation Foundation have charitable giving programs supporting Emergency Preparedness and Safety that aim to provide resources and help build capacity for organizations protecting and serving our most vulnerable community members.

Preparedness

$1.2M to the California Fire Foundation to support fire departments and firefighting associations with funding for fire equipment purchases, local fire education programs and vegetation management efforts and a statewide fire safety awareness campaign targeting underserved communities in multiple languages.

$750K to American Red Cross Fire Safety Programs to support the Episodic Disaster Holding Fund shelter activations supporting displaced residents in response to wildfires and other disasters. This funding also supported home fire prevention outreach campaigns, local home fire response efforts and recovery services for survivors to help alleviate hardships caused by disasters.

American Red Cross provides key services during wildfires.

Capacity Building

$1.25M to support 50 food banks and other nonprofits through the Community-Based Organization (CBO) Resiliency Fund, with an emphasis on those within Tier 2 and 3 high fire-threat districts in communities that are most vulnerable to loss of power and its effects.

$675K supported 37 food banks across the PG&E service territory to provide critical services to vulnerable residents during emergencies including wildfires, power outages and Public Safety Power Shutoffs (PSPS).

$500K to support United Way’s and Interface Children and Family Services 211 programs, which provide vital information on COVID-19 pandemic-related updates, programs and services for those impacted by wildfires and disasters and PSPS information for customers.

$360K to support 42 CBOs serving low-income and vulnerable communities in high wildfire-threat areas. The CBO Direct Program empowered nonprofits with resources to assist in the distribution of in-language and culturally competent emergency preparedness messaging to diverse communities in high wildfire-threat areas.

Emergency Response

As part of an ongoing commitment to support residents displaced and impacted by wildfires, PG&E and The PG&E Corporation Foundation contributed an aggregate total of $1M in charitable contributions to support wildfire relief and recovery efforts in 2020.

Over 35 nonprofits received funding supporting food insecurity, local Community Foundations, volunteer fire departments, tribal communities and labor advocacy groups

$150K to the American Red Cross California Wildfire Relief Fund for shelters and community support
